DETAILED ACTION

Election/Restriction

Restriction is required under 35 U.S.C. 121 and 372.

This application contains the following inventions or groups of inventions which are not so linked as to form a single general inventive concept under PCT Rule 13.1.

In accordance with 37 CFR 1.499, applicant is required, in reply to this action, to elect a single invention to which the claims must be restricted.

Group I, claims 1-3, 5, 7, 11, 14, 22, 27, 30, 32, 33, 35, 39, 43, 47, 48, 50, 51 and 54-56; drawn to a method for determining the level of transporter protein translocated to the plasma membrane of a cell.

Group II, claim 57; drawn to a process for determining a mutation in a nucleic acid encoding a mutant transporter protein, by determining the level of the mutant protein translocated to the plasma membrane.

Group III, claim 58; drawn to a process for detecting an agent that modulates translocation of a membrane transporter.

Group IV, claim 59; drawn to a process for detecting a compound for the treatment of insulin resistance.

Group V, claim 62; drawn to a process for manufacturing a medicament for the treatment of insulin resistance.

The inventions listed as Groups do not relate to a single general inventive concept under PCT Rule 13.1 because, under PCT Rule 13.2, they lack the same or corresponding special technical features for the following reasons:

The first claimed invention lacks a special technical feature because it fails to distinguish the claimed invention from the prior art (Wang, et al, 1998, FEBS Letters, 427:193-197, of record). The prior art discloses a process for measuring levels of transporter translocation to the cell membrane, including the steps of contacting cells with a ligand that binds the extracellular domain of the transporter (p. 195), disrupting the plasma membrane (p. 195, paragraph before the discussion), and comparing translocated transporters with those that remain cytoplasmic (see Abstract). The method described in the reference meets all the limitations of the method recited in claim 1. Therefore, none of the other claimed inventions can share a special technical feature with the first claimed invention.

In addition, the methods of determining levels of translocated transporters, detecting mutations, detecting the ligands, and formulating pharmaceutical compositions each require administration or use of different compounds which are structurally and functionally different from each other and each of which can be made and used without the other. Lack of unity is shown because these compounds and methods lack a common utility which is based upon a common feature which has been identified as the basis for that common utility.

Species Election

This application contains claims directed to more than one species of the generic invention. These species are deemed to lack unity of invention because they are not so linked as to form a single general inventive concept under PCT Rule 13.1.

The species are as follows:

- 1) GLUT4,
- 2) GLUT1,
- 3) mutant GLUT4,
- 4) mutant GLUT4.

Applicant is required, in reply to this action, to elect a single species to which the claims shall be restricted if no generic claim is finally held to be allowable. The reply must also identify the claims readable on the elected species, including any claims subsequently added. An argument that a claim is allowable or that all claims are generic is considered non-responsive unless accompanied by an election.

Upon the allowance of a generic claim, applicant will be entitled to consideration of claims to additional species which are written in dependent form or otherwise include all the limitations of an allowed generic claim as provided by 37 CFR 1.141. If claims are added after the election, applicant must indicate which are readable upon the elected species. MPEP § 809.02(a).

The species listed above do not relate to a single general inventive concept under PCT Rule 13.1 because, under PCT Rule 13.2, the species lack the same or corresponding special technical features for the following reasons:

Each glucose transporter is a unique structure with unique properties including separate functions within a cell and within the organism. Furthermore, each transporter represents a separate contribution to the art, with expression in one cell type failing to anticipate or render obvious expression in any other cell type. Furthermore, each transporter requires its own search, and has its own phenotype and relationship to disease.

Applicant is advised that the reply to this requirement to be complete must include (i) an election of a species or invention to be examined even though the requirement may be traversed (37 CFR 1.143) and (ii) identification of the claims encompassing the elected invention.

The election of an invention or species may be made with or without traverse. To preserve a right to petition, the election must be made with traverse. If the reply does not distinctly and specifically point out supposed errors in the restriction requirement, the election shall be treated as an election without traverse.

Applicant is reminded that upon the cancellation of claims to a non-elected invention, the inventorship must be amended in compliance with 37 CFR 1.48(b) if one or more of the currently named inventors is no longer an inventor of at least one claim remaining in the application. Any amendment of inventorship must be accompanied by a request under 37 CFR 1.48(b) and by the fee required under 37 CFR 1.17(i).

Rejoinder

The examiner has required restriction between product and process claims. Where applicant elects claims directed to the product, and the product claims are subsequently found allowable, withdrawn process claims that depend from or otherwise require all the limitations of the allowable product claim will be considered for rejoinder. All claims directed to a nonelected process invention must require all the limitations of an allowable product claim for that process invention to be rejoined.

In the event of rejoinder, the requirement for restriction between the product claims and the rejoined process claims will be withdrawn, and the rejoined process claims will be fully examined for patentability in accordance with 37 CFR 1.104. Thus, to be allowable, the rejoined claims must meet all criteria for patentability including the requirements of 35 U.S.C. 101, 102, 103 and 112. Until all claims to the elected product are found allowable, an otherwise proper restriction requirement between product claims and process claims may be maintained. Withdrawn process claims that are not commensurate in scope with an allowable product claim will not be rejoined. See MPEP § 821.04(b). Additionally, in order to retain the right to rejoinder in accordance with the above policy, applicant is advised that the process claims should be amended during prosecution to require the limitations of the product claims. Failure to do so may result in a loss of the right to rejoinder. Further, note that the prohibition against double patenting rejections of 35 U.S.C. 121 does not apply where the restriction requirement is withdrawn by the examiner before the patent issues. See MPEP § 804.01.
